

Ni-La Lê is a fourth year doctoral student in Linguistics at MSU. She is from Vietnam and got her BA in Linguistics and Literature and an MA in Linguistics at Ho Chi Minh City University of Education there. In 2008, she went to the University of Arkansas to pursue a Master's degree in American Literature on a Fulbright scholarship. Upon her graduation in 2010, she came back to Vietnam and resumed her position as a lecturer at the Department of Linguistics and Literature at Ho Chi Minh City University of Education. She has taught Vietnamese (all levels) to foreigners as well as a variety of linguistic subjects such as Introduction to Linguistics, Phonetics, Textual Grammar and so forth for 6 years. Here at MSU, Ni-La was a teaching assistant for LIN 401 and is a research assistant at the Language Acquisition Lab this year. Her research interest is Vietnamese noun phrases from the perspectives of syntax, semantics, and child language acquisition. In addition, she is interested in community services, outdoor activities, and exploring new cultures and new people. She has been to 18 states of the U.S. and 7 countries. This is her second year as a Language Fellow.
